

voiceworks

Thursday 22 March
Wigmore Hall
6.00pm – 6.45pm

Admission Free

A showcase of new music for voice created by composers from the Guildhall School of Music & Drama working in partnership with writers from the Contemporary Poetics Research Centre, Birkbeck College.

As part of Wigmore Hall's Festival of Song, the participating students have collaborated to create exciting, surprising and challenging responses to the question of what song can mean in the early twenty-first century.

Programme includes works by:

Katie Butler and Lee Scrivner, Sarah Chamberlain and Jessica White, Jonathan Daou and Ceri Buck, Josh Kaye and Ross McElwain, Omid Khorremy and Piers Hugill, Matthew Knowles and Jon Clay, Michail Paliaologou and Stephen Mooney, Sam Smith and Aodhán McCardle

Performed by:

Alice De Ville, Carleen Ebbs, Thomas Herford, Samantha Houston, Seija Knight, Nicholas Morris, Christina Sampson, Matthew Sprange

To reserve a ticket call: 020 7935 2141

Supported by The Samuel Sebba Charitable Trust

Wigmore Hall, 36 Wigmore Street, London W1U 2BP Director: John Gilhooly

